

Student Housing Room Types & Designations

Alumni Commons Suite Single (ACSU) —A single-occupancy bedroom within a three- or four-person unit at Alumni Commons.

Alumni Commons Townhome Single (ACTH) —A single-occupancy bedroom within a six-person townhouse at Alumni Commons.

Standard Single (SNGL) —A single-occupancy bedroom within any First-Year residence hall that has one bed and may only be assigned to one student.

Deluxe Single (DSNG) —A double-occupancy bedroom within any residence hall which traditionally has been shared by two students but has now been designated for only one student to select to occupy for the upcoming academic year; the room will include two single beds which the occupant can use for themselves or a guest in accordance with our guest regulations.

Medical Single / Deluxe Single Medical Reserve (DSMR) — A bedroom within any residence hall which has been designated or converted to function as a single to be occupied only by a student with a medical accommodation, when authorized as eligible by the Committee on Special Housing Accommodations. In cases where a medical reserve room was previously suitable for double-occupancy, the room may include two single beds which the occupant can use for themselves or a guest in accordance with our guest regulations. The cost for this room type will not exceed the cost of a standard double for the current semester.

Super Single (SSNG) —A double-occupancy bedroom within any residence hall which was intended to be shared by two students but becomes available at any time after fall opening to purchase for single occupancy for the remainder of the current semester, based on availability. Super Singles will not be sold in advance of the academic year but may be offered after classes begin depending on space availability and housing demand. Rooms sold as super singles will continue to include two single beds which the occupant can use for themselves or a guest in accordance with our guest regulations. The cost for this room type will be equal to the cost of a deluxe single for the current semester.

Standard Double (DBL) —A double-occupancy bedroom within any residence hall that has two beds and is intended to be occupied by two students.

Deluxe Double (DDBL) —A triple-occupancy bedroom within any residence hall which traditionally has been shared by three students but has now been designated for only two students to select to occupy for the upcoming academic year.

Vroman Suite Double (SDBL) —A double-occupancy bedroom within a shared Vroman Hall Suite which has two beds and is intended to be occupied by two students.

All Gender Housing — “All Gender” generally refers to buildings and communities – like Alumni Commons – where students can select bedrooms to live in regardless of their gender identity. Please note, at this time, bedrooms cannot be selected by students of different gender identities. But students of any gender identity may still live right next to each other in many residence halls or they may share suites or apartments together in Vroman Hall or Alumni Commons.

Mixed Gender Housing — “Mixed Gender” broadly refers to areas within residences where there are a mix of male- and female- designated bedrooms, suites or apartments available.
